Command and Control

CACI develops, integrates, sustains, and operates command and control (C2) solutions, consisting of hardware, software, and interfaces that provide robust, seamless C2 capabilities. We enable network-centric operations, providing services and solutions that deliver an information advantage to our customers wherever they are. Using "Power to the Edge" principles, we deliver capabilities that achieve and leverage shared awareness to realize greater degrees of synchronization. We understand asymmetric defense environments. Our approach to delivering quick reaction capabilities and integrating those capabilities into legacy systems has proven essential to shortening the "threat to fire" timeline.

Driving Secure Information Superiority at Every Level

Whether on the battlefield or in domestic law enforcement and emergency response, information superiority is crucial to success. CACI enables information superiority for our nation's military, homeland security, law enforcement, and emergency responders by providing leading-edge command and control solutions that ensure critical information is disseminated directly into the hands of those who need it most. We deliver the right information to the right people at the right time, providing every participant the ability to make critical decisions in highly dynamic environments. With affordability at the forefront, we engineer our solutions for fast, cost-effective deployment and sustainment across systems and mission lifecycles, assuring best value for our customers.

CACI has extensive experience with the design, development, integration, and sustainment of C2 software and systems. Our services and solutions are scalable to mission rhythms and demands. From traditional platform engineering and integration in large acquisition environments to rapid development of quick reaction capabilities, CACI offers proven results to meet the most demanding missions. We also speed information sharing through voice, video, and data. This capability maximizes information intelligibility, analysis, and sharing in both classified and non-classified environments, from the tactical to the central strategic level.

CACI's C2 experts support a diverse portfolio of services to customers across the globe. We provide system solutions and functional subject matter expertise for combatant commands, the Army, Navy, Air Force, Defense Information Systems Agency, the homeland security community, and federal, regional, and state agencies.
